$15,000,000 FIRE LOSS IN THE CITY OF CORK

FIRE STARTED ON SATURDAY NIGHT; CITY HALL BURNS

FIRE BROKE OUT SAME TIME LIBRARY, CITY HALL AND MANY SHOPS

QUARTER MILE OF BUSINESS SECTION BURNED—2,000 OUT OF WORK

(United Press)

Cork, Dec. 13—Cork continued to burn today. Spreading over a quarter of a mile of the main business section of the city, incendiary fires started Saturday night swallowing up more property last night. Losses it was estimated will approach $15,000,000.

At least two thousand persons were out of work today with banking houses, many shops and the city hall destroyed. Fifty buildings were burned.

There was a belief there must have been casualties in the conflagration but the smoking ruins permitted no search for bodies today.

There is disagreement today as to whether or not the fire was started by British police in reprisal for ambushing Sinn Fein leaders charged the destruction to black and tan police.

At dusk Saturday, two lorries of soldiers who entered the territory for the enforcement of martial law were ambushed at Dillon nearby. Two hours later disturbances began in the streets. Teams were stopped and passengers searched. Finally one car was fired upon. Almost simultaneously flames broke out in the library, city hall and a number of shops on St. Patrick street.

Investigation of Fire Started

London, Dec. 13—Government investigation of the Cork conflagration began today.

No reports were received by the Irish office as to the casualties, but officials declared it would be remarkable if a number of lives were not lost in so widespread a fire.

Responsibility for the destruction was not fixed in view of conflicting reports. Irish office reports indicated a panic ensued when the first flames broke out. The homes of two Sinn Feiners near Dillon's Cross where two lorry loads of soldiers were ambushed Saturday night, were burned following the attack, according to reports here. Flames were kept from spreading to other residences in the neighborhood.

Attack Military Barracks

Dublin, Dec. 13—Military barracks at Ballynally were attacked today by Sinn Feiners. One policeman was killed and three severely wounded in a five-hour fight during which one wall of the building was blown in. Police succeeded in holding the structure.

Highlanders and Irish Clash

London, Dec. 13—A pitched battle between the Sinn Fein and Scottish Highlanders occurred near Cloyne, where the Irish were ambushed by troops, the Irish office announced today. One Sinn Fein was killed and several were seriously injured. A number of prisoners were taken by the Highlanders. One soldier was wounded.

Fierce Fighting Rages in Ireland

London, Dec. 13—The fiercest fighting since the Easter rebellion of 1916 raged in many parts of Ireland today. Attacks on British soldiers were begun while the heart of Cork still flamed in incendiary fires.

The soldiers and police, according to dispatches received here, were more than holding their own.

HOUSE WILL BEGIN CONSIDERING REPEAL OF WAR TIME LAWS

(By United Press)

Washington, Dec. 13—The house today voted to begin immediate consideration of the Volstead resolution repealing many of the war time laws. Debates on the resolution were fixed at two hours.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS MINNESOTA ESPIONAGE LAW

CLINCHES SENTENCE OF TOWNEY AND GILBERT CONVICTED OF ACT

(United Press)

Washington, Dec. 13—The states can enact war-time espionage laws, the supreme court decided today.

It held constitutional a law of Minnesota enacted to prevent interference with enlistment of men in the military forces of the United States. The law was attacked by Joseph Gilbert, who was convicted under it because of an alleged anti-war speech. He was fined $500 and sentenced to one year imprisonment.

St. Paul, Dec. 13—When the supreme court today upheld the constitutionality of the Minnesota espionage act, it probably clinched the sentence in a number of cases pending.

Conviction of A. C. Towney, president of the nonpartisan league, and Joseph Gilbert, former organizer, on a charge of violating the state espionage act in Jackson county, is now pending in the state supreme court. Each was sentenced to ninety days in jail by the Jackson county court. An appeal is scheduled to be held in the supreme court next Tuesday.

Gilbert, convicted in a Goodhue county court on similar charges, brought about the ruling of the United States supreme court today.

Justice McKenna, in delivering the opinion of the court, declared that it was a work of patriotism for the state to assist the federal government in all work of prosecution of war and could not be held repugnant to the constitution.

He held that American citizens have duties both in the United States and the state, since they are citizens of both.

The court decision was seven to two. Chief Justice White dissented on the ground that the right to enact espionage laws was an exclusive power of congress. Justice Brandeis dissented on the ground that the law was a peace time infringement of free speech.

McKenna's opinion was a scathing indictment on Gilbert's speech claiming that to grant him protection would be a travesty on the constitution.

Gilbert was an organizer of the nonpartisan league.

"This act is not a war-time measure but makes the preaching of pacifism criminal in the times of profound peace," said Justice Brandeis in his dissenting opinion.

"It takes away from a citizen the right to say in peace time what his conscience tells him is the truth.

"If a man should desire to teach his children that sorrow and suffering are the result of war, has the state the right to say that he may not?" Brandeis asked. He criticized in sharp terms McKenna's opinion because he took the occasion to denounce as false Gilbert's statement as to why the United States entered the war.

Adopts Town-Planning System.

For taking care of the future growth and appearance of the city, Terre Haute, Ind., has adopted a planning system which will involve the construction of various civic buildings, among which is a proposed coliseum. IMMIGRATION SUSPENSION FIXED AT ONE YEAR

(United Press)

Washington, Dec. 13—Supporters of immigration suspension lost a point when the house today suspended previous action and decided to fix one year during which immigration shall be suspended under terms of the Johnson bill.

The vote was 185 to 161 for an amendment proposed by Rep. Mann, of Illinois, to fix the suspension period at one year. A vote on the Johnson bill itself was then started with indications that the measure would pass. The Siegel amendment admitting wives as well as blood relatives of naturalized immigrants also was adopted 203 to 76.

BILL ADOPTED 293 TO 41

Washington, Dec. 13—The proposal to temporarily halt immigration finished the first lap of its course through congress today when the house adopted the Johnson bill 293 to 41.

As finally amended the bill provides that all immigration shall be barred for one year and that wives and blood relatives of naturalized immigrants may be admitted.

HIGH TAX RATE CANNOT BE ENFORCED

(By United Press)

Washington, Dec. 13—Continuation of the present maximum tax rates on big incomes will "break the back" of the income tax system. Professor Thomas S. Adams, tax expert of the treasury department, told the house ways and means committee today.

Adams, a witness in the first hearing on tax revision, said that the present tax of 73 per cent—65 per cent surtax and 8 per cent normal tax on large incomes is impracticable in times of peace and can not be successfully enforced.

He held that American citizens have duties both in the United States and the state, since they are citizens of both.

DANIELS DOES NOT FAVOR LIMITING OF NAVAL ARMAMENTS

UNLESS IT IS A WORLD-WIDE AGREEMENT WILL ADVOCATE NAVAL INCREASE

(United Press)

Washington, Dec. 13—An agreement between England, Japan and the United States to limit naval armaments does not meet the favor of Secretary Daniels, the secretary told newspaper men today.

Daniels said he would endorse an understanding to reduce sea power only in event it was world wide in character. An agreement among any certain powers would appear too much like an alliance and would arouse the suspicion of other nations, the secretary said.

Daniels indicated that when he goes before the naval affairs committee tomorrow to report his naval construction program, he will ask that an increase of the American navy is imperative until the United States enters a world-wide disarmament agreement.

As finally amended the bill provides that all immigration shall be barred for one year and that wives and blood relatives of naturalized immigrants may be admitted.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT CAN NOT PROSECUTE I. W. W. DEPORTERS

(United Press)

Washington, Dec. 13—The federal government cannot prosecute the twenty-five men who deported 231 I. W. W. from Bisbee, Arizona, in July, 1917, the supreme court decided today.

The action affirmed the judgment of the Arizona district court that federal statutes are not applicable to those who drove out the I. W. W. from Bisbee to New Mexico in such a sensational way as to attract the attention of the entire country.

(United Press)

He said that most of the land sold was in five northern Minnesota counties and the average price received is about fifteen dollars an acre which is considered high for this class of land.

PLANS SUBMITTED FOR INTERNATIONAL JUDICIAL TRIBUNAL

TO THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS ASSEMBLY—CONSIDERATION BEGAN TODAY

ELIHU ROOT WAS ACKNOWLEDGED AS DRAFTING PLAN TO MEET ONCE A YEAR

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Geneva, Dec. 13—The league of nations assembly today began the consideration of plans for an international judicial tribunal submitted by a commission of three, Leon Bourgois, French delegate, presented the commission's report. The hall of reformation was filled with a crowd of visitors who occupied the balcony looking down over the rows of delegates.

Acknowledgement was made of the draft of the tribunal plan by Elihu Root.

Senator McCormick, republican, from the United States and widely credited here with being at least an unofficial observer for President-elect Harding, was one of the assembly's guests when Bourgois began reading his report.

Bourgois outlined the commission's plans for establishment of a tribunal with headquarters at The Hague. The court will comprise eleven judges of the young woman whose nude and mutilated body was found late yesterday under a pile of leaves in the brush a short distance beyond the end of a street car line.

Her face was hacked beyond recognition. A blood stained suit case full of woman's clothing and a large quantity of jewelry were found about one hundred feet from where the body was discovered.

The Misses Irene Peterson and Jepene both to the Democrats and to the Republicans before this time.

Really the one curious thing about this whole matter, which to some people may seem trivial because it is so far in advance of the time of possible happenings, is that party leaders today in Washington are getting their heads together to find the means to combat foes of whose appearance in the field they cannot be sure. In other words, the party with an overwhelming majority in congress has some fear that it may have been altogether too successful in the recent election.

One of the component expressions heard among members of congress is "a good working majority." This always has been taken to mean a majority that was neither too large nor too small, but one big enough to allow for the desertion of a few malcontents and yet not so small as to leave any doubt that the party's will under the "preached pressure" of party interest shall prevail.

Folk Songs.

Folk songs are the simplest things there are, and they make a sure appeal, as was shown in France during the war when large audiences consisting of men of widely differing classes and occupations listened with delight to English folk songs, more especially those with a chorus, in which they were accustomed to join with energy and with excellent effect. But folk songs are a precious inheritance from the past; a living popular art must spring from the present and must express the feelings and convictions, the likes and dislikes of the present, its pathos, its comedy and its tragedy.

Naturally.

"Scribner's" new novel will have its scenes laid in the wheat fields."

"Of course, then, it will appear as a serial?"

Famous Fish Family.

Pickerel is diminutive for pike, and is applied to the smaller species of the pike family and to the young of the larger species. It is most often applied to the banded pickerel, which seldom exceeds 12 inches in length. The muskellunge is a very large species of pike, sometimes attaining a length of eight feet. It is found in northern fresh waters of North America, and is a famous game fish.

Ancient History.

Ancient history begins with the first recorded history and extends to the fall of the Roman empire, 476 A. D., including all the historical events included in the Bible. The prehistoric period is the period about which nothing is known, either from the Bible or other sources. It has no limits, and scientists, historians and archaeologists give varying opinions as to its probable extent.

Danger in Huge Majority.

There are plenty of Republicans elected to the next house of representatives who were members of that house in the days when insurgent Republicanism succeeded in wresting certain powers from the hands of the speaker. Those were lively times, and there is not a correspondent in Washington or a member of congress who was here in those days who has forgotten the thrilling events which happened one after another on the floor of the hall of representatives in the days now gone, but not far gone at that.

Depends on the President.

The truth is today, just as it was when Wilson became President and the Democrats had their fears, that trouble or lack of trouble depends almost entirely upon the acts of the President of the United States. If the President suggests something in a legislative way which party men who are progressive consider reactionary, or which conservative party men consider radical, then trouble likely will start. This particular thing has hap-

SIGNOR FABBRINI
CHARMS SOCIETY

Italian Pianist's Latin Temperament
Shown in Glowing Tone Color of Selection

PLAYED AT MUSICAL CLUB

Hostesses Were Mesdames George D.
LaBar, F. A. Farrar and Walter F. Wieland

Seldom has a pianist, in Brainerd, received applause that had so much of the true sound of the heart in it as that which closed the recital of Signor Giuseppe Fabbrini before the Brainerd Musical club, Saturday afternoon.

The pianist's Latin temperament was shown in the strong tone color and free translation of tempo markings in his opening number, Sonata Op. 27, Beethoven. This number also demonstrated his skill in pedaling, requiring, as it does, long sustained tones that must not be permitted to muddle the accompanying motive.

Chopin's "Barcarolle," however, was not given the interpretation one would expect from a native of the land of the gondolier. It had too much rollicking abandon in it. In fact, it might easily have been taken for a Rhine boat-song of Heidelberg students, previous to 1914.

But the delicate tone shading in Chopin's inimitable lullaby, "Because," was exquisite, and one could fairly see the tiny scintillating wings of Hinton's "Fireflies," as he played that delightful morceau.

But his crowning effort was Liszt's brilliant "Rigoletto Fantasy". In this, the thread of the Rigoletto melody was never for a measure lost in the intricate embroidery of runs, thrills and arpeggios in which Liszt's musical fancy roams, nor was there a single flaw in the meter of the ravishing rhythm.

The only regret of the afternoon was that Signor Fabbrini was so "near" with encores. He bestowed but one—Godowski's "Music Box."

The hostesses who are responsible for this treat are Mesdames G. D. LaBar, F. A. Farrar and Walter F. Wieland.

An attendance of 219 was recorded Sunday.

Judge Walter F. Wieland gave a very interesting address before the Adult department.

Before giving his address he had been shown the various departments at work. His comment on the school was "that it was the most efficient organization he had seen for the moulding of character."

The Senior department voted to make $20.00 as the minimum of the amount this department would raise for European sufferers. This action was taken following a presentation of the needs by Miss Gladys Lagerquist.

Each department is making a heroic effort to do all that may be expected of them for the relief of the suffering.

The Beginners room has been rearranged and decorated with the things that delight the little people making it most attractive.

The Tatapochon Camp Fire Group are surprising their friends by the quality of music they are rendering at the evening worship. The girls are being directed by Miss Mildred Skauge.

The Sunday school board which includes every officer and teacher will meet at the church Tuesday evening from 7 to 8 o'clock to consider some very important arrangements for Christmas.

The Young Peoples department had more attendants than chairs. This department is growing steadily.

The mens class had a most interesting discussion Sunday. The teacher, Rev. E. A. Cooke is a most excellent teacher.

The Junior department sings in a manner which is pleasing to hear. This age is one of enthusiasm and they express it in song.

First Baptist Bible School

The school was well attended in the three divisions, the interest is growing.

The Christmas program will be given on Thursday, December 23rd. Committees on program and arrangements are all busy to make it a real Christmas.

The Christmas offering will be given to the Near East sufferers this year. All classes are planning for this hoping to make it as large as possible.

The superintendent appointed a nominating committee to report at the annual meeting January 1st on new officers for the school for the year 1921.

The Alpha class will meet at the home of Mrs. G. A. Beale tonight at 8 o'clock. This is the last meeting of the year. Every member should be present.

The last business meeting and social hour of the year of the Baraca class will be held at Emil Zimmerman's on Ninth street north Tuesday evening. All Baraca's present.

The school voted to send delegates from the Young People's division to the Older Boys and Girls conference at St. Paul, January 7th.

The Young Peoples division are planning on the initial "warning" of the new "Lower Temple" Tuesday evening, January 4th, 1921.

This will be exclusively for the young people with their class teachers, pastor and superintendent.

The Young Men's class are arranging for a stereoptican lecture which will be given in the Lower Temple on Tuesday evening, January 25th to which the public will be invited.

The Primary department was very much crowded for room on Sunday morning.

Presbyterian Sunday School

Sunday we had one of the best and most enthusiastic meetings held in a long time. The entire Sunday school entered into the work.

The Sunday school will hold an old-fashioned Christmas on Christmas eve at the church at eight o'clock. This will include both the primary and main departments. There will be a Christmas tree with all the trimmings and a Santa Claus who will distribute gifts from the Sunday school to the pupils. Each class in the Sunday school will have one number of the program and each class must see to the preparing of its number. The White Christmas will be kept as usual. At this time each class will bring its offering forward and one member of the class will offer a prayer.

Attendance still continues good. The primary department is having a especially good turnout and is doing fine work under the direction of Miss Brown.

Plans are under way to have a Sunday school orchestra and a Sunday school choir. This new work will be taken up following the Christmas program.

Study Club

The Study club will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. A. J. Hayes, when the following program will be given:

Drama, "Mrs. Pipp's Waterloo", followed by refreshments and a social hour.

Nature's Beauty.

In West Virginia and similar states where the tillable acreage is limited and it is difficult to grow sufficient grain and roughage for dairy cows, the sunflower comes as a great blessing, adding wonderfully to the wealth and industry through the dairy products. It is certainly interesting to note the many hitherto familiar but unattractive products that have been found to be abounding in possibilities of usefulness and wealth.—Thrift Magazine.

Deep Mystery in Tin.

There are records of the use of tin by the ancients, but it is rare that any implements of this metal are found by archeologists. This is said to be due to the circumstance that a sort of decay attacks it, producing a change in its crystalline structure, the nature of which does not seem to be clearly understood. This ends in reducing the tin to a fine gray powder. The process proceeds much more rapidly at certain times than it does at others and seems to be transmitted from one piece of tin to another.

World's Oldest Canal.

A farm near Roswell, N. M., has an irrigation ditch or canal which is thought to have been built centuries before the time of Columbus. The walls of the canal are built of a clay-like material, now as hard as stone, which is supposed to have been sediment from a nearby spring.

Good for Him and His Wife

Hurley L. Watkins, 2308 Lytle St., Louisville, Ky., writes: "I found Foley's Honey and Tar just what I wanted for my wife's and my colds." Checks coughs, colds, croup, bronchial coughs; stops that "tickling" throat that keeps one coughing at night. Contains no opiates nor habit-forming drugs. H. P. Dunn, druggist.

Christmas Gifts

We realize that your interest must be extremely keen in the buying of suitable and appreciable Christmas gifts.

Fortunately we are able this year to show an unusual line of gift goods, really a line that we have never attempted to carry before, an assortment in excess of anything any other store may be able to show in this line, and still the old, standard, favorite universal gifts besides.

WILL ALAND ISLANDS BECOME A BALTIC FIUME?

Caught in the swirl of the minor flurries that disturb Europe are the remote Aland Islands, where Swedes and Finns clashed in a manner suggestive of the dispute between Jugoslavs and the Italians along the Adriatic, according to newspaper dispatches.

For more than 200 years the Aland Islands, which are situated like a cork in the wide mouth of the Gulf of Bothnia, have been a sort of Alsace-Lorraine question between the Swedes and the Russians. After having passed back and forth several times, they were finally ceded to Russia in 1809. During the reign of Nicholas I they were strongly fortified, a move most distasteful to Sweden, because the islands occupy a strong strategic position with respect to Stockholm, the Swedish capital, which is less than 100 miles to the southwest from Bomarsund, the chief fortification of the islands.

These fortifications were short-lived. In 1854, during the Crimean war, a Franco-British fleet, under Sir Charles Napier and Baraguay d'Hilliers, destroyed the works, and after that time the islands were left unfortified, in accordance with an international agreement.

The Aland group, which is separated from the Swedish mainland by Aland Bay (Aland Hafn) and from the Finnish mainland by Skiftef sound, is composed of some 300 islands and rocky islets, the total area of which is not more than 550 square miles. The largest island, Aland, a name signifying "land of streams," is almost as large as all the others combined, having an area of 237 square miles, about twice the size of Martha's Vineyard.

Cattle raising and fishing are the chief occupations of the 25,000 people who live on the islands. Some cereals (barley and oats) are grown on the thin soil, and there are a few forests of birch, spruce and fir.

Finland troops recently were reported marching through the streets of Mariehamn. This attractive little bathing resort is the chief town of the islands, having a population of 1,400. In times of peace a daily steamer service is maintained between this port and Abo, the oldest and historically the most interesting city in Finland. The voyage from Abo to Mariehamn takes about 10 hours.

It was in the water adjacent to the Aland Islands that Peter the Great's navy won its first important victory, defeating the Swedes in 1747.

Only about 90 of the 300 islands are inhabited, and the fisherfolk, in the main, are of Swedish descent.

Sweden's desire to hold the islands arises in part from the fact that they control the entrance to the Gulf of Bothnia, through which most of that kingdom's internal trade is carried on.

LONDONDERRY: "MAIDEN CITY OF IRELAND"

Derry, or Londonderry, in Ulster, known in song and legend as the "Maiden City of Ireland," has the charm of the cheery, busy town and is truly characterized by the stirring marching song which these Irish sing on their days of celebration:

"Where Foyle his swelling waters rolls northward to the main,
Here, Queen of Erin's daughters, fair Derry fixed her reign;
A holy temple crowned her, and commerce graced her street;
A rampart wall was round her, the river at her feet."

These four lines briefly tell Londonderry's story. Along the two-mile quays of the river Irishmen jolly each other as they load and unload the foreign, colonial and coasting trade of the docking vessels. For the Foyle is wide and deep, and large tonnage ships dying the flags of France, Australia, Brazil, the United States, and India bring their wares to her port. Busy boats in the city make them, and then laughing, twinkly-eyed Irish girls make the linen into shirts before it leaves Londonderry. The salmon fishery on the Foyle is important and the town has timber mills, grain mills, and shipyards.

But Derry has for the traveler a charm greater than its hustle and up-and-doing atmosphere—the story of a past replete with romance, devotion to principle, and the exhibition of indomitable spirit. Columba, the greatest of the Irish saints after Patrick and Brigid, in 540 landed on the oak-clad hills and converted them. Here he founded his abbey, known as Daire-Columbille, or Columba's Oak Grove, within the shadow of the great fort on neighboring hill, the stronghold of the lord of Tyrone, in order that his sanctuary might have the protection of the fort. But in vain did he reckon his chances against the Danes and Saxons who, time and again, pushed their boats against his shores. Despite their plundering and burnings, the settlement, of which he had made the nucleus, grew and maintained its independence until 1609.

Hot Springs Old National Park. Many Americans are not aware that Hot Springs is a government reservation. As a matter of fact it is the oldest of the great system of national parks, monuments, reservations and forests which the American people now own. Hot Springs was made a reservation by the government in 1892 in order that the healing properties of the waters might be accessible to all and not exploited by capital. Unfortunately the reservation was made only large enough to take in the springs themselves and the town crowds all about them, when they should be in the center of a great park. There is a free bathhouse, maintained by the government, and other more elaborate ones operated for profit by concessionaires.

Derry was then given to the corporation of London, which tacked on the prefix London. Three years later the Irish society, to which London derry and much of the surrounding country had been given, pledged itself to enclose Derry within walls, and these walls, wide enough for a coach and four, are excellently preserved today, perhaps to the inconvenience of the inhabitants, but certainly in accordance with their sentiments and wishes. Any one who expressed a desire that they be taken down would be treated as a traitor. Long ago they grew too small to encompass all the inhabitants of the hustling port, but they stand like a stiff belt around the waistline of the hill on which the city is built. The most inconvenient thing about them is that, though they are more than a mile in circumference, there are only seven gates leading through them. Because the walls defended the city in the siege begun by James II, a busy man must make quite a jaunt out of his way to find a passageway through them, but, true to Irish sentiment, he does it without a murmur. On one of the bastions of the wall an old gun, affectionately known as "Roaring Meg," points her nose over the city.

Here, too, on the hill in the center of a crowded old graveyard stands the quaint, squat cathedral with its queer pinched tower. It is called after St. Columba, although it is not on the site of the old abbey built by the saint fourteen centuries ago.

On a high, inaccessible hill in the distance, looms the stronghold of the lords of Tyrone. It is said that St. Patrick came to the fort to baptize Owen, who first set himself up to rule over the province of Tyrone, and St. Columba visited it before his exile.

Here, too, captive Danes who had threatened the peace of the city were dragged in triumph.

Though every trace of the old castle has been obliterated, the massive stone wall fourteen feet thick and eighteen feet high, resembling the bank-dike of a cyclone, has stood out grimly against the centuries. A small iron gate hangs across a two-foot doorway, the only entrance to its huge amphitheater-like interior, which reveals further devices designed for the protection of the inmates.

OLD LETTERS REVEAL LOST CHAPTER IN WORLD HISTORY

Lava preserved the secrets of Roman civilization in Pompeii; tombs protected the records of ancient Egypt's culture; and now there is prospect that some long neglected letters may reveal one of the most fascinating chapters in the historic trail of the Jewish people, and incidentally show that Africa loomed larger in the middle ages than modern historians have realized.

Hitherto Africa has figured not at all in medieval history. It still was a "dark continent" when Staaten and Livingstone penetrated it less than a century ago. Yet, in view of a remarkable documentary discovery made by Charles de la Renciere, Librarian of the national library in France, it would seem Jews of the fifteenth century had trading posts in northwest Africa, and carried on a vast commerce with the natives from the Sahara to the Atlantic and from Algeria to the Niger.

Antonia Malfante, a Genoese citizen, traversed this region and wrote his descriptive letters, in 1447, from Timbuktu and Toumt, Timbuktu was the Chicago of the west African plains; and Toumt the center of the camel caravan traffic that exchanged the wheat and barley of Egypt for the powdered gold of Timbuktu and the precious salt from Teghazza.

All the places visited by Malfante were so well known to the Jews of his time that they were listed in a Catalan atlas prepared three-quarters of a century earlier by Charles V, according to M. Ronceres. But shortly after Malfante's visit the Jews were driven out of Spain, and since the Jews were the only Jews in Europe who knew of the Nigeria country and apparently permitted no Christian to enter there except Malfante the Jew, knowledge was lost to Europe. Not until Dr. Gerhard Robt began his explorations in Africa and Morocco in 1850 did the rest of the world again form a contact with the extensive regions of Malfante's travels.

Landing at a point west of Algiers, Malfante worked his way south to Toumt, which Robt believed himself to have been the first European to visit. Yet Malfante dated his first letter from these four centuries earlier.

Toumt was an oasis, containing from 150 to 200 villages, which together formed a vast commercial center. Each had a chief. Travelers became the guests of these chiefs and Malfante reported their protection superior to that in states like the Thebans and Tufts. One of these towns was Tamot, now a decayed village, whose people still recall the Jewish epoch. Arabians invaders earlier had routed the Jews, who were masters of the Sahara and whose empire extended south to the Niger. Tamot, Malfante wrote, sheltered both Jews and Mohammedans who lived in harmony.

The native negroes valued copper highly. Malfante stated, and used it for money. Profiteering, apparently, is not a modern vice. Malfante complained, "The people here do not want to transact any business if they do not make a commission of 100 per cent." And their business was on a big scale, at that. Half a million head of cattle, to mention but one item, were brought to market in the caravan season.

Pushing on to Timbuktu, Malfante's host was the brother of a captain of desert industry, a man of great wealth and possessed of trade information concerning all of north Africa. From him Malfante learned of such flourishing places as Teghazza, famous for its salt mines and unique for its architecture. The houses were made of rock salt. Malfante noted that it never rained there, or the houses would have melted away.

GUNNING FOR PROFITEERS AN ANCIENT PRACTICE

Profiteering in foods and high wage demands by labor are far from being ultra-modern problems.

Ancient Egypt bogged its profiteers in the market places and medieval England passed maximum wage laws, according to a communication by Ralph A. Graves to the National Geographic society, which says:

"Following the devastation of the Black Death in England in 1348-1349, cultivation of the fields was utterly impossible and there were not even enough able-bodied laborers to gather the crops which had matured. Cattle roamed through the corn un molested and the harvest rotted where it stood.

"Out of the situation which resulted from the impoverishment of the labor resources of the kingdom grew the first great clash in England between capital and labor. The peasants became masters of the situation. In some instances they demanded double wages, and whereas formerly land-owners had paid one-twelfth of every quarter of wheat as the harvesting wage they were now forced to pay one-eighth.

"Parliament hurriedly passed drastic laws in an effort to meet the new condition. Statutes provided that 'every man or woman, bond or free, able in body and within the age of threescore years, not having his own about which he may occupy himself, and not serving any other, shall be bound to serve the employer who shall require him to do so, provided that the lords of any, bondsmen or land-servants shall be preferred before others for his service; that such servants shall take only the wages which were customarily given in 1337 (the year prior to the first appearance of the plague).

"Though every trace of the old castle has been obliterated, the massive stone wall fourteen feet thick and eighteen feet high, resembling the bank-dike of a cyclone, has stood out grimly against the centuries. A small iron gate hangs across a two-foot doorway, the only entrance to its huge amphitheater-like interior, which reveals further devices designed for the protection of the inmates.

"The first ordinance in English history, designed to curb the greed of the middleclass, was passed nearly a century earlier (in 1250) when there was a bountiful harvest, but destructive rats caused the heavy crops to rot in the fields.

"But England did not originate food control measures. A law like in 927 A.D. resulted in a famine the following year, which swept away 600,000 people in the vicinity of the city of Fesiat. Gawhar, a Mohammedan Joseph, founded a new city (the Cairo of today) a short distance from the stricken town and immediately organized relief measures.

"The Caliph Mo'tez sent every assistance to his lieutenant, sending many ships laden with grain; but pice of bread still remained high and Gawhar, being a food controller who had no patience with persuasive methods, ordered his soldiers to seize all the millers and grain dealers and drag them in the public market place. The administrator then established central grain depots and corn was sold throughout the two years of the famine under the eyes of a government inspector."

Exercise Can Be Overdone.
There is a great deal of falsity about the assumed value of exercise in the open air, states the Medical Record. In moderation, that is within the individual limits prescribed by bodily limitations fixed by nature for each person, nothing is better. Proper exercise is as essential as food or air, but the growing boy in his excesses of enthusiasm and knowing no limits to his endurance greatly oversteps his bounds in many cases and invites disaster.

Music Increases Output.
Transplanting rice in the Philippines costs about 40 centavos a day, with two meals, cigarettes and betel nut, but when music is provided the output of work is increased 30 per cent, says the New York Medical Journal. It is often a blind man who plays. He sits on the low dyke and sings the old folk songs to his guitar, and frequently the workers join in the chorus. Some of the large stores in the States also tried the effect of music with good results.

She Says It Can't Be Beat.
Deep-seated coughs that get hold of one in autumn should be stopped now or they may continue all winter. Mrs. Wm. F. Davis, R. F. D. 1, Short Creek, W. Va., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar can't be beat for colds. It checks coughs and bronchial irritation, heals raw, inflamed throat, loosens phlegm. H. P. Dunn, druggist.

MARY PICKFORD'S GREATEST PLAY

Soon to be Shown at the New Park Theatre

Critics everywhere assert that "Pollyanna" is one of the greatest picture-plays ever filmed. The reason for this is that the philosophy is based on a theme which at the present time has an unusually wide appeal.

Undoubtedly Mary Pickford, with characteristic far-sightedness, had this in mind when she chose this celebrated work as her first vehicle for the United Artists' Corporation.

There is a great craving at the present time on the part of the public, according to best informed showmen, for something more than mere entertainment. Of course, diversion is always the paramount thing whenever amusement is considered, but at the same time people want something big and compelling—something that will drive home a few truths without preaching a sermon or spoiling the flavor of show which is meant to entertain.

Such story is "Pollyanna," with its cheerful philosophy of gladness. It is believed that this production, coming at a time when the country is upset by a period of readjustment, will have an unprecedented reception from the picture patrons.

Miss Pickford points out in this story that even when things are bad they might be worse. This thought, planted in the minds of people who are dissatisfied with wage conditions, or who think they are not getting a fair price for their goods, will tend to stimulate a line of mental activity which will result in stabilizing conditions.

Pauline Frederick Coming

A novel like "The Paliser Case" doesn't remain unscreened for any length of time. And as soon as it was published, the Goldwyn company succeeded in acquiring the screen rights to this dramatic and powerful melodrama. It is now ready for presentation at the New Park theatre, with Pauline Frederick in the role of an impoverished singer who marries an old man, Monty Fullerton, to secure medical aid and physical comfort for her invalid father. The adaption was made by Edfrid A. Bingham, and William Park directed the production.

"The Devil's Claim"

The description of an ancient Egyptian temple found in a papyrus manuscript by French archaeologists and deciphered by a celebrated American bibliographer was followed closely in erecting several of the unusual stage settings in "The Devil's Claim," starring Sessue Hayakawa.

Definition of "Culture."

Culture is then properly described not as having its origin in curiosity, but as having its origin in the love of perfection; it is a study of perfection.—Matthew Arnold.

YOUTHFUL LOVE IN CONTRAST TO AGE'S DEVOTION

Boy and Girl Sweethearts in "Old Lady 31" Lend a Romantic Touch

Antrim Short and Winifred Westover furnish a touch of youthful romance in the Metro-Screen Classic production of "Old Lady 31," coming to the New Park theatre soon.

The theme of the play that Rachel Crothers based on Louise Forsslund's novel is, one critic remarked, that "grandmothers and grandfathers are just the same as other people, only older." The introduction of the juvenile lovers is in gentle contrast to the romance of the old couple, played on the screen—as on the stage—by Emma Dunn and Harry Harmon.

"Old Lady 31" is the third Metro-Screen Classic picture. Antrim Short has been engaged for in four months. He just completed playing Billy Wantage in Bert Lytell's latest picture, "The Right Way." Previous to that he was Viola Dana's leading man in "Please Get Married." His present characterization is John, a carpenter and the nephew of one of the elderly women in the home.

Winifred Westover has played many important parts in pictures during the past few years. She was De Wolf Hopper's leading woman for two years and has supported Charles Ray, William S. Hart and other well-known stars. In "Old Lady 31" she is the daughter of the village banker.

Enter: Canned Horse Racing

With the enforcement of bills prohibiting horse racing in many states in the Union, the fascinating sport has already become history in many regions of the country. But through the medium of such pictures as Tom Moore's latest Goldwyn production, "Lord and Lady Algy," which may be seen at the New Park theatre soon, the thrills which once stirred the thousands of visitors to the tracks have been preserved on celluloid and placed in cans for safe keeping. In this story a famous horse race has been faithfully filmed. The scenes in the paddock before the English Derby are run, the prancing horses parading to the starting post, the fall of the flag, the start, the race itself with the varying positions of the different horses, the changing leadership, and finally the thrilling head to head finish have all been caught by the camera; and like the voices of our most famous opera and concert singers they have been preserved. Some twenty years from now, when horse racing will be but a word to the children of today in those localities where it has been banned, "Lord and Lady Algy" will have more than mere picture value—it will bring history to the screen.

Culture is then properly described not as having its origin in curiosity, but as having its origin in the love of perfection; it is a study of perfection.—Matthew Arnold.

MacLEAN'S RISE TO FAME

Star in "The Jailbird" Has Had Marvelous Screen Career

Douglas MacLean, who is the star in the Paramount picture, "The Jailbird," a Thomas H. Ince production, which will be the feature attraction at the New Park theatre soon, can boast of a more meteoric career than any other screen star.

Starting on the stage only a few years ago, MacLean played in support of Jane Grey, Olive Tell, Marjorie Rambeau, Maude Adams and Margaret Anglin. Since his entrance into pictures, he has played opposite Mary Pickford, Enid Bennett, Dorothy Dalton, Vivian Martin and Alice Brady.

"The Jailbird" is a picture that compares favorably with the four preceding stories in which he has been starred. Doris May is his leading woman.

New Rex Beach Picture

Being a civil engineer, a Wall Street broker, a Colorado rancher and a Yale athlete make a good preparatory course for a motion picture actor as demonstrated in the case of "Lefty" Flynn, who appears in Rex Beach's new picture, "Going Some," produced by the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation which comes to the New Park theatre.

Flynn won fame a few years ago on the Yale football eleven. He then joined his father in the brokerage business, later went to various parts of the country as a civil engineer and finally settled down on a 2,200 acre ranch near Steamboat Springs, Colorado, the ranch being a gift from his father.

Recently when he was in New York Flynn met Rex Beach and during several games of golf Beach persuaded him to go to California to take part in "Going Some." Flynn plays the part of "Skinner," the ex-soldier who won a race at Pershing Stadium in France.

Comedian Will Surprise Admirers With "The Round Up"

The many admirers of Roscoe Arbuckle, the famous comedian whose Paramount-Arbuckle comedies have provided the world with a vast amount of merriment, will be afforded a delightful surprise with the presentation of the new Paramount screen version of "The Round Up," at the New Park theatre in the near future.

Basil King's Masterpiece

"Earthbound" is Basil King's masterpiece of the screen, and a story of great spiritual power, produced by Goldwyn for Eminent Authors under the direction of T. Hayes Hunter. It comes to the New Park theatre as one of the finest photoplays of the year. The cast includes Wyndham Standing, Naomie Childers, Lawson Butt, Mahlon Hamilton, Alec B. Francis, Billie Cotton, Kate Lester and Flora Revalles.

BILL HART'S WESTERN PICTURE "SAND!" HAS FINE HUMAN APPEAL

Quality of Heart Interest is Present in Big Screen Story of the West

The quality of human interest which reaches into the most depths of the spectator and grips the heart strings, is evident in "Sand!" a new Paramount-Arcraft picture produced by ardent William S. Hart, which is shown at the New Park theatre.

"Sand!" has a double meaning: story is laid in the land where desert sands come up to meet the hills; it is the story, moreover, of a grit.

Lambert Hillyer wrote the scenario and also directed. The original was by Russell A. Boggs and called "Dan Kurrie's Inning" by Hillyer and Mr. Hart, with the cast, have given it life, vitalized it and made it a thing to remember and enjoy.

appearances as anyone else in the business ever since. One of her latest and best characterizations is offered in "Old Dad," the Mildred Harris Chaplin starring vehicle which is scheduled for a showing at the New Park theatre soon.

$10,000 NOVEL FOR RUBENS PICTURE

"Diane of the Green Van" Adapted From Leona Dalrymple's $10,000 Story for Pretty Star's Play

In "Diane of the Green Van," the initial production of the Winslow Stars Corporation, starring Alma Rubens, released by Exhibitors Mutual, the sponsors have been highly commended for a production out of the ordinary. A remarkable story—one that won the $10,000 prize in a story contest—holds the audience by its mystery and exciting moments up to the very finish. A cast very much above the ordinary "star" cast, lavish setting and beautiful exotic scenes, ranks this production as one of the notable achievements in photo-plays.

Peculiar Claim for Damages.
One would scarcely go to the records of the law in search for amusement; and yet they contain food for merriment, remarks a writer in London Tit-Bits. Who, for example, can resist a smile on reading that case in which a young lady successfully sued for damages a steamship company that had had the audacity to name one of its boats after this beauty without asking her permission?

"Sea Wolf" Real Man

It is interesting to recall in connection with the showing of the George Melford Production, "The Sea Wolf," to be shown at the New Park theatre, the keen interest its talented author, Jack London, always had in the San Francisco water front, which is the locale of the story and the background for many of the most striking scenes in the photoplay. London lived in Oakland, just across San Francisco Bay, and took especial delight in associating with the rough sailors from the four quarters of the globe who came from their anchored ships to frequent the "Barbary Coast" resorts and spin their adventurous yarns. London used them freely in his stories. The chief figure in "The Sea Wolf"—the enigmatic, brute-philosopher, Larsen—was taken directly from a chance seafaring acquaintance of London's.

Old Roman Kitchen.

When the Roman empire was at its height, the kitchens of the rich boasted saucepans lined with silver, pans inlaid with arabesques, pastry molds shaped like shells and an infinite assortment of gridirons, pans, grates and tart dishes.

MAN "THE CHEAPEST ANIMAL"

In West China He is the Universal Bearer of Burdens, for Simplest of All Reasons.

Not a wheeled vehicle is seen in all west China except the wheelbarrow, near Cheng-tu. Thousands of tons of commerce pass over these highways annually, all on the backs of men; and as we approach the centers of population we find the sewage and the water of the city are on their backs also.

The "Back of Man" is the unwritten epic of this land; for, Atlas-like, it bears the world upon it. The coal and other minerals from the mountains; the cities, with their walls and towers and all that they contain; the wood on the hills and the grain of the plain—all, together with the pigs on the way to market and the men who can afford it—all have ridden or ride upon the back of man.

The reason is not far to seek. It is purely economic. Man is the most efficient machine and the cheapest animal, and so it comes to pass that he is the universal animal, the omnibus of commerce and the pack races.

It is cheaper to wear men down than keep roads up. When he falls, few care and still fewer pity, for others are eager to fill his place. Should we offer to take the burden from his shoulder, he would regard it as taking the rice from his bowl.—Dr. Joseph Beech in the National Geographic Magazine.

TELL OF LENGTH OF LIFE

Age Secrets of Animals, Trees, Plants, and Even Birds, Easily Penetrated by the Initiated.

As most people are aware, it is possible to tell the age of a horse by examining its teeth, remarks a writer in London Answers.

The age of a sheep may be known in a similar manner—that is, by its teeth. The number of years a cow has lived is found by a different method. The horns are examined, and the number of rings on these horns tells just exactly the age of the cow.

Just as the horns indicate the age of the animal, so the development of the antlers helps to calculate the age of animals belonging to the deer family, and the length of life of other horned animals is arrived at in the same way.

The age of many birds can be determined by examining the spurs.

Trees often live to a very great age, and while they are standing it is a difficult matter to arrive at the age of these; but when they have been cut down the age of the tree may be reckoned by counting the number of rings visible in the section.

It is a comparatively easy matter to learn the age of growing mistletoe, as each shoot sends off two new shoots each year, and by counting the joints from the root to the tip of any branch the number of years the mistletoe has lived may be computed.

It is a common practice to use the age of growing mistletoe to determine the age of a tree.

The age of a tree is determined by the number of rings visible in the trunk of the tree.

Ran on Its Reputation.

A San Francisco man went to sleep in his automobile early one morning recently and when he woke up his machine had gone two miles from the last landmark which he remembered.

The machine stuck to the road and behaved very properly during the chauffeur's nap.

1400 POUND BELL RAISED BY TRACTOR

Ferdson Tractor Run by Ritchie Warrick Aids Congregation of Zion Evangelical Church

CHURCH IN N. E. BRAINERD

"Jin" Pole Used as Leverage, Block and Tackle Employed, and Bell Raised 42 Feet

A 1400 pound bell was installed in the steeple of the Zion Evangelical church, corner Fourth Avenue and Forsyth street with the aid of a Fordson tractor loaned by the Woodhead Motor Co., the machine's operations being directed by Ritchie Warrick their expert mechanic.

A "jin" pole was planted near the church tower, its base being sunk several feet into a hole cut in the cement walk. Guy lines steadied the pole. Block and tackle was attached.

At a signal the tractor steamed away and the bell was hoisted to position 42 feet from the ground. A car silo was used as a pole, and the hoisting was done in ten minutes. So far as known this is the first time a tractor has been so used in hoisting.

ANNUAL CONGRESS OF HOME FOLKS

University Farm, seat of the Minnesota college of agriculture, is making extensive preparations for the big annual congress of farm folks which, now widely known as Farmers' and Home-makers' week, will be held January 3 to 8, 1921.

The week will not be devoted to work entirely, rather, it is planned to mix work, recreation and entertainment that the farm people will look back on their week's stay with unalloyed pleasure, and plan to attend future courses at University Farm. The recreational and entertainment features will take the form of two evening banquets, mass meetings in the afternoon and general meetings each evening. Good music and speaking, with occasional moving picture shows will be features of these meetings.

The farmer can select the particular study in which his interest centers. There will be daily lectures, discussions and demonstrations by experts on farm management and farm crops and the treatment of soil, live stock production, dairy cattle production, veterinary medicine, horticulture, beekeeping, poultry raising and farm engineering and building. The farm crops section will give an entire day to talks by experts on every phase of potato growing, handling and marketing problem. Field seeds, farm organization and factors about costs of production will be analyzed thoroughly in half day sessions.

The home-maker can also select the studies which will be most helpful in her individual case, whether it be home management, planning meals, designing gowns, or the home care of the sick and the welfare of the children.

She leaves a husband; four sons.

George Weber of Brainerd; Benjamin Weber of Washington, John and Rudolph Weber of Daggett Brook; four daughters, Mrs. Minnie Bourassa of 13th street; Mrs. John Engel, Mrs. William Wendt and Mrs. Fred Kelly of Brainerd.

It was decided Monday afternoon to hold the funeral services on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home.

A score of livestock associations and other farm societies will hold their annual meetings at University Farm during the week. The Minnesota Livestock Breeders association will consider more economical methods of production and improved systems of marketing. Plans will be laid for introducing more purebred sires and increasing boy and girl club livestock work of the State.

Speakers of national reputation will have parts on the program. Breeders of various kinds of cattle, sheep and swine will attend the meetings of their own particular associations, all of which will be held during the week.

No fees are charged for attendance upon this great series of instructional meetings. The only expense to the individual will be train fare and board. Meals and sleeping accommodations can be obtained at the farm. Those desirous of obtaining reservations should write at once to Dr. A. E. Sturm, University Farm, St. Paul.

BRAINERD MEN CLEAN UP BEMIDJI

Bootleggers and Distillers Arrested in Bemidji by Brainerd Special Officers

OF THE INDIAN DEPARTMENT

Bootleggers Plying Their Trade Red-handed on Street, Selling Booze 50 Cents a Drink

Bootleggers plying their nefarious trade in the heart of the city of Bemidji, retailing moonshine at 50¢ a drink, furnishing everything except a brass rail and a whisk broom for the thirsty ones, have had a crimp put in them by a corps of special officers of the Indian department from Brainerd, the officers being Special Officer E. G. Boyd, Leo Meyers and George Musolf.

The flying wedge of Brainerd men struck town without any advance notice and here is the fruits of their first week's toll:

Four bootleggers arrested, caught selling the goods, bottles and glasses in their pockets.

One moonshine distiller operating within the city limits of Bemidji, his still seized while in operation.

Part of a still and coils and considerable moonshine seized on a place a mile and a half from Bemidji. The moonshiner left hurriedly when the officers approached.

Noets have been laid for other moonshiners and more results are anticipated. The Brainerd officers are all experienced men with a long list of successful exploits to their credit throughout central and northern Minnesota. The information above was given by an officer in federal employ who for obvious reasons did not wish his name mentioned.

CONFERENCES IN MARION PLANNED

HARDING WILL CONSULT REPRESENTATIVE MEN OF BOTH PARTIES.

ELIHU ROOT PROBABLY FIRST

President-Elect Desires in This Way to Formulate His Policy Concerning Treaty of Versailles and League of Nations.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington. — Both Republicans and Democrats will be consulted by President-elect Harding on his return from Panama as to what the United States shall do about the Versailles treaty and the League of Nations. The conference will take place at the home of the President-elect in Marion and will begin about December 10 and run for a fortnight or more. While there has been no public announcement as to the definite arrangement for this series of conferences, the understanding here is that the president-elect will see two or three men daily until he feels that he has absorbed a proper amount of information. Elihu Root, former senator and former secretary of state, has been invited to be in Marion December 10 and it is presumed that he will be the first man consulted.

The men who are to be consulted with respect to the treaty and the league divide into three groups. First there is the group made up of so-called irreconcilables, Republicans and Democrats, who are opposed to the United States becoming a member of any international league or association. Then there is a second group made up of men who would discard the Versailles treaty, including the League of Nations covenant, and attempt to bring the nations into some sort of understanding looking to the prevention of war. Finally there is the group made up of men who believe that the United States should go into the existing league with proper reservations, and once in, seek to bring about such amendments as may seem desirable.

Some Who Will Be Consulted.

Public men who have thus far not been invited to confer with the President-elect on the treaty and the league are speculating as to the men who will be asked out to Marion. It is taken for granted that the irreconcilable group will be represented by Senators Hiram W. Johnson of California, Frank B. Brandege of Connecticut, and William E. Borah of Idaho, Republicans, and James A. Reed of Missouri, Democrat. It is by no means certain that all four of these irreconcilables will be called into conference, but certainly this will be the group from which Mr. Harding will choose. Senator Johnson will, of course, expect to be called into conference since he has been the leader of the irreconcilable group.

When it comes to looking for advice from men who would wipe the slate clean and then attempt to form some sort of an international association, the President-elect, it is believed, will turn to Senators Philander C. Knox of Pennsylvania, George H. Moses of New Hampshire and Harry S. New of Indiana.

In making selections from the third group, Mr. Harding will have a somewhat larger company to choose from. There will be Elihu Root, William H. Taft, Jacob Gould Schurman, Senator Porter J. McCumber of North Dakota, and Herbert Hoover, all Republicans, and Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska, Democrat. Mr. Taft has already received his invitation to go to Marion. He will be there a day or two after the visit of Elihu Root.

How Does Lodge Stand?

It will be noted that Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, majority leader in the senate and chairman of the foreign relations committee, does not appear in either one of these three groups, and yet it is certain that he will be consulted. He is not assigned because persons here who ought to know where he stands, if anybody knows, confess they do not know what position he will take in his conference with the President-elect. Most observers here are disposed to classify Senator Lodge with the irreconcilables, though it is true, of course, that at the last session he advocated ratification with reservations and so voted.

After the views of the three groups have been submitted, the President-elect, so persons who know something about his program say, will attempt to unite the Republicans of the senate on a program. This is conceded by all to be a big task.

The first assembly of the League of Nations will have completed its work before Mr. Harding begins his conferences with the representatives of these groups. It is assumed that the outcome of the assembly meeting will not be without effect on the minds of the men who have been invited to confer with the President-elect and also on the mind of the President-elect himself. For instance, if the meeting of the assembly should indicate rather clearly that the league has come to stay whether the United States enters it or not, that fact would naturally become an important factor in the conferences.

The artificial flower industry in England employs more than 10,000 persons.

HomeTown Helps

BEAUTIFY THE RURAL SCHOOL

With Careful Planning, the Cost of Making Building and Grounds Attractive Is Negligible.

Did you ever see a rural school that had a winding and attractive path that led to its door? If you have it is well, for it is rare, remarks Elizabeth L. Cowan in the Indianapolis Star. Usually there is no semblance of a walk, but should there be one, it is the straight, concrete one that is suited to the artificiality of city life. In connection with the campaign the state department of education expects to put on for the improvement of rural schools, it might not be amiss to focus some attention upon the exterior of these schools as well as upon their lengths of term and their curriculum. Every teacher who is now drawing a salary in a rural school has an infinite opportunity to leave a memorial to her name, in tangible form, and at the same time to do great community service, by setting an example for all householders in the district.

A new schoolhouse fairly shouts its newness from the landscape, and for some strange reason even the old ones are ugly and unadapted to their surroundings, even after years of service. It is possible to make the school grounds the most attractive place in the neighborhood—and all of this without money cost. To be sure it will require some planning and forethought on the teacher's part, perhaps even a little physical work, but the most of it will serve as means of nature study, agriculture and landscape gardening for the girls and boys. They will be tremendously interested in making contributions of plants from their own gardens and in doing the actual work of planting and pruning.

Falconry Still Practiced.

Falconry, known to the Chinese 2,000 B. C. and a popular sport in days of Nineveh and Babylon, 1200 B. C., is still in vogue in certain parts of England. Wild hawks are caught and tamed for the sport, and the Illustrated London News recently related how one old Hollander, with two assistants, captured a sufficient number of the sporting birds to keep English clubs supplied. The hawks are trapped with decoy pigeons and nets. The hawks bear a distinct resemblance to smaller ones of the American family.

Bigness Necessary for Service

IN some farm operations, in many manufacturing lines, and, more particularly, in refining and distribution of petroleum products, large scale operations are essential to insure maximum economy and service.

The production of crude oil varies but little on account of seasonal changes, and the refining processes are continuous operations.

The consumption of petroleum products, however, varies widely with the season. In summer, consumption far outstrips production, while during the winter months the reverse is true.

To prepare himself for the summer rush, the oil refiner, who is ambitious to render a maximum service, must operate his refineries at full capacity throughout the year, and must provide adequate storage to take care of his surplus output during the winter months, and store it against a day of maximum demand when the country roads and city boulevards are crowded with machines, and the farmer has his tractor in the field.

To perform this service requires the investment of huge sums of money, and the maintenance of a complete organization at all times.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is ambitious to be a leader in the petroleum industry. It is ambitious to render to the people of the Middle West as near a perfect service as care, thought, and adequate resources can devise.

In carrying on its business, the Company has invested more than 185 million dollars; it operates four large refineries in which it manufactures the many varieties of petroleum products needed by the consuming public.

It operates 3215 bulk stations, more than 1000 filling stations, and a fleet of nearly 4000 tank delivery trucks.

Its permanent organization consists of about 23,000 efficient loyal men and women, working under one head, to render a service which makes it possible for you to get a gallon of gasoline, or a quart of oil, or a pound of grease, when you want it, and wherever you may be.

October.

October is our tenth month, but the eighth in the old Roman calendar, as its name indicates. Our Saxon ancestors called it Wynemonth, or the wine month. In allusion to this name, an old writer remarks: "And albeit, they had not ancient wheats made in their own country, yet in this season they had them from divers countries adjoining." In some of the ancient Saxon calendars this month is represented by a farmer carrying a sack on his shoulder and sowing grain, in allusion to the practice of sowing the winter grain.

Known to Fame.

"Speaking of fame," said the Observer of Events and Things, "I believe it was Cinderella who first put her foot in it."—Yonkers Statesman.

Bride Carries Canary.

A bride in Paris recently appeared at the altar with her pet canary fastened to her shoulder by a golden chain. During the ceremony the bird broke into song.
